DRY GOODS

four say it is folly, but we think it wise.

Now We Will Tell You How We Can Fake Money by Realizing Cost.

The Copression in trade has been wenderful everywhere. We have bought more goods than usual this fall, anticipating good trade, than usual this fall, anticipating good trade, as that was the universal cry at the outset of the senson, but those that prophesied in this case must have been foom companions of from the case must have been foom companions of from the control of the senson of the gear. About three weeks got the kaceletor Suit and Cloak Company of New York offered us a lot of 530 coats of all kinds in medium goods, the balance they had no hand of this sesson's production, at a very low fightre. We thinking there was some big money in them for us, bought them and sold a quantity, but we still have some of the cream felt, and we just came to the concinsion that now was the best opportunity to well them and if we can dispose of them at cost and realize the cash and make our discount we are still insafing money. We have divided every lot and numbered them from 1 to 18 with new tickets, and each garment marked according to this list;

Let 1–13 Bolmans, assorted sizes and colors,

Although we have no robins in this country, we have lots of little boys keep themselves warm. Need we say where you will find them? It is scarce-

In looking over our Overcoat stock this week we find the three-fifty sort are rapidly declining. You cannot expect much at this price, and yet we would like you to compare them with some that we have seen bought for five

Cape Cvercoats, we think, have a broad future before them, consequently our Holiday provision has been large, and our prices moderate, from $8 upward.

> Newmarkets still sel well for boys of all ages, as well as to young men. We run them in our Boys' Department from 6-year-old ones up to those suitable in size for young men. In this way we cheapen the larger sizes by striking an average.

Norfolk Overcoats for the little ones have entirely superceded the ulsters. These, with their handsome plaits, cunningly conceal unsuspected pockets, intended only for the little folk, from 3 to 7 years old, and sell from $5 to $10.

Pea Jackets are intended as alternatives. A boy who has one of these cares not for an overceat. They are mostly made of thick and warm material, like chinchilla, and are warmly lined with cassimere.

On Rainy Days a boy will want a Rubber Coat if he goes to school, We have lots of these, both heavy and light ones, and what is to the point, good ones.

> Fine Overcoats for the rising generation we have in abundant supply, but Christmas will find our house well cleaned out. Some of these are beautifully trimmed with all sorts of fur imitations, which look as well and wear better than the original.

Plaid Overcoats for the boys are very stylish. Ours are made of handsome combinations of colors, some of them real tartan plaids. Nothing could be in better taste for boys' wear than these. As they are mostly made of fine goods, the prices range from $10 to $15. quite low, considering the quality.

As Christmas ap proaches the boys grow anxious to know what is in store for them. We are ready and anxious to fill their reasonable desires by offering you the largest, best and cheapest stock of Boys' Overcoats in D. C. We know the boys are willing.

Tableau: We show the boys a Christmas window this week, a foretaste, as it were, of a scene in many a household. Central window, Seventh street side.

> Location is principally on Seventh street, the great thoroughfare of the town, and facing also on C street, alias Market Space. Following the advice of Ben. Franklin, we have cheap ened ground rent by building upward, and any part of our spacious edifice is soon reached by our store wagon.

in unique patterns, of superior workmanship and at Lowest Possible Prices Consistent With the Cost of Production.

Believing that the utility of a present is of essential importance. I have sought in my exhibit to combine the PRACTICAL with the ARTISTIC, to the effect that whatever may be purchased for presentation will not be put away out of sight by the recipient. Hence the adaptability of my goods for Christmas and New Year's Offerings is worthy of consideration. With a cordial invitation to visit my show rooms for instition or purchase, I wish one and all A Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year.

At the Antiquarian stores one expects o find old styles or old goods more or ess out of date at reduced prices.

We are not Antiquarians. If you want old goods our store is not the place to come, as we don't buy "job Our stock of Clothing is always fresh. We add the new styles as fast as they come out. The patterns from which our goods are made are undergoing constant changes to keep pace with the demands of the most critical and best trade. By this means our goods are always ploneers in fashion.

As to prices, all you have to do is to get figures of other dealers and then come and see us.
